CAREER PATHWAY

FROM HERE. GO ANYWHERE.

Tidewater Community College is the smart choice if you're planning to pursue a bachelor's degree at a four-year college or university.

Students who transfer to four-year colleges after attending community college are more likely to finish their degrees on time, and they generally perform better academically than students who start there.

TCC's transfer degrees generally fulfill the requirements of the first two years at a four-year college. That means you will save thousands on the cost of your degree and usually transfer to a four-year college as a junior!
